“We were thrilled to give our guests from Japan an overview on transitioning medically complex kids from hospital to home,” said Tamara Schafer, Outreach Manager, PHS, “To be able to interact with and educate health care providers across the globe on the importance of home care is an amazing honor.”

While at PHS the group received a tour of the Simulation Center. They were also given an overview on training for nurses, education we provide to patient families, research our medical director Dr. Roy Maynard is working on, PHS’ community involvement, legislative efforts and information on being a Pediatric Center of Excellence.

The professionals spent two days in the Twin Cities touring four other health care organizations and proceeded to Washington D.C. for tours. The group was sponsored by The Japan Association of Healthcare Management (JAHMC), which was founded in 1990 through the approval of the Ministry of Health and Welfare as a non-profit social corporation.
